

Anna Hill

Started at Kelvin Hall in 1986

Anna started Kelvin in 1986 when she was 13, after leaving Wyke Junior High and she spent most of her time trailing around a French Horn as she knew even then, that music was the career that she wanted to follow.

The music teacher at that time, Geoffrey Howson, organised many exciting school concerts that gave her the opportunity to sing and play a wide variety of music, including musical and show tunes - a forerunner of the Glee club!

After leaving Kelvin, I studied A levels at Wyke College and then took a music degree at Queen's University, Belfast.

She now works as a music teacher in Larne, Northern Ireland.
