

Kris Edge

1998-2003

Kris Edge works on the electrical systems within fighter jets at RAF Leeming in Northallerton, North Yorkshire.

After leaving school, he did an apprenticeship at BAE systems, Brough, and carried out fitting and electrical work on different types of fighter plane, before specialising in electrical systems.

In 2007, Kris spent six months in India, helping to train Indian aerospace professionals in sub-assembly and installation of electrical systems in their planes.

His current role at RAF Leeming involves working on aircraft avionics systems and electric wiring in the Tornado fighter jets which operate from the base.